LOCAL BREVITIES.

There is a loud call for bricklayers and mechanics at San Bernardino.

James Setten will find a message for him at the Western Union Telegraph office.

The Senator sailed for upper ports yesterday, taking 36 passengers from Los Angeles.

The Ventura will sail for San Francisco and Santa Barbara to-day. Passengers will take the 10 A. M. train.

The important land case of Nichols was closed in the United States Land Office yesterday.

The firemen's ball to be given Thanksgiving night promises to be a grand affair. Tickets are already selling rapidly.

The Orizaba is expected to arrive at Wilmington to-morrow and sail for San Diego. She will return on Wednesday, upward bound.

Mr. W. T. Jones was yesterday admitted to the Bar by the District Court on the favorable report of the examining committee.

The Alden Fruit Drying Works closed operations last night to commence packing the stock of raisins thus far cured. The works will be running again in three or four days.

In the case of the city vs. Gay & Co. in the District Court yesterday the injunction was granted on the part of the city and the injunction bond fixed at $5,000.

L. M. Foulke, Supervisor of Internal Revenue for the Pacific Coast District, and H. H. Bigelow, General Manager of the Home Mutual Insurance Company, are at the Pico.

On New Aliso street near Grund's blacksmith shop a large stream of water, probably from a broken water pipe has been spurting from the ground for the last four days. The street is in bad condition. Whose business is it to look after this matter?

Read the advertisement of the Bachman House appearing in another place. Mrs. Bachman has rented the entire second and third stories of the Perry & Riley Block, and proposes to devote it to a first-class family boarding-house. A more extensive notice will appear in our next issue.

There was no meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last night. A note member of the Board was present at the appointed place, and the room was not lighted. The Angel Gabriel will toll his trumpet ten minutes before the next meeting occurs.

The great trotting race in San Francisco yesterday was won by Fullerton in three straight heats. Time, 2:20, 2:22, and 2:21. Purdy came in second in each heat and Occident third, Purdy taking the second money. About eight hundred dollars in pools were sold by Noyes & Durfee at the Fashion Saloon.

Mr. Wm. Pridham has consented to become a candidate for re-election to the office of member of the Board of Education. It is presumed also that Col. Smith will consent to a re-nomination. Both gentlemen should be returned unanimously by our citizens to the position which they have filled so faithfully.

Mrs. H. Hoffman Larkin, M. D., will lecture in the M. E. Church, Fort street, on Monday evening, the 23d instant, for the benefit of the Methodist Sunday School, and with a fine magic lantern, will give illustrations of Bible scenery and Bible characters together with plates of astronomy, botany and natural history. Admission—adults, 50 cts.; children, 25 cts.

Mr. Rollin P. Saxe arrived yesterday with his lot of blooded stock and now has the animals at Ferguson & Metzger's Stable for exhibition and sale. The lot comprises nine thoroughbred Durham bulls, ranging from nine to twelve months old. They were all brought from Kentucky and their pedigrees are well authenticated. The prices run from $400 to $900. The stock is in fine condition and deserves an inspection by all who are interested in such matters.

The fine, large three-story brick building erected on New High street, north of Turner street, by Wm. Cape is nearly completed. The two lower stories are already occupied and the third will be ready for those desiring rooms in a short time. The house stands sufficiently above the level to enable a person standing on either of the balconies to obtain a fine view of the city and valley and almost within a stone's throw of the Pico House, is a desirable place for those wishing rooms outside of a hotel. Mrs. Cape superintends her fine house in person, and is ever ready to show its rooms to those in search of pleasant locations.

The trotting contest to raise funds for the purchase of a clock to be placed in the tower of the High School building has been set for Monday, November 30th. The managers have concluded not to hold the race on Thanksgiving day as at one time arranged. Entries must be made with Ben C. Truman on Monday, November 23d, and no entries will be received after 7 P. M. on that day. Tickets can be procured at the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank. Many of the most prominent ladies of the city have volunteered to sell tickets. It is ardently hoped that all will turn out and make the affair a grand success.

Insurance for Farmers.

A branch office of the California Mutual Fire Insurance Company has been established in this city, with Col. J. Q. A. Stanley agent and headquarters with Lindley & Thompson, No. 51 Temple Block. This company has been incorporated under the auspices of the State Grange, and is designed to furnish cheap and reliable insurance to farmers, whether members of the Grange or not. The officers are, J. D. Blancher, President; G. P. Kellogg, Treasurer, and W. H. Baxter, Secretary—all members of the State Grange and residing in San Francisco. The capital stock of the company is $100,000, and it is proposed to double this amount before long. The plan of insurance is as follows: The farmer who wishes to be insured pays a premium of $5, to cover the expenses of policy and deposits in the hands of the company a sum equal to two per cent. on the amount for which his property is insured. This two per cent. is held merely as a deposit by the company. It is loaned on good security, and the plan contemplates that the interest alone on this sum will pay all the expenses of the company. Should this revenue be insufficient, however, the funds on deposit are subject to assessment to make up any deficit. The insured takes a policy for five years, and should he wish to withdraw before the expiration of that time, his two per cent. deposit is refunded to him, less the assessment for losses, if any has been made. At the expiration of the five years, however, should he wish to renew his insurance, he simply pays $5 for a new policy and his deposit is still carried to his credit. The plan is finely conceived and will doubtless be very successful. Farmers' risks are about the best known and the losses among them will doubtless be small, and cannot occur in crushing numbers. As in the great Chicago or Boston fires, by this means, the farmer secures his insurance at about one-third of the rate usually paid and invests with a company in which he can place his most implicit reliance. We predict for the company an extended popularity in the State as soon as it becomes thoroughly known.

"An American" Thinks Differently.

EDITOR HERALD: In last Sunday Morning's HERALD, we found an article entitled "A Young Teacher Speaks." In his last paragraph he says: "In conclusion I would remind 'Citizen' that while the Christian religion is tolerated and its professors are protected by our laws, it has no more right to introduce its code of morals into our free schools, than the Buddhists have to introduce the Rig-Veda, the Mahometans the Koran, or the followers, Zoroaster the Zend-Avesta."

Now, in the first place, we should like to know where that "Young Teacher" discovered that the Christian religion is tolerated by our laws. The very idea of its being tolerated is an insult to our Nation; as if the United States had degenerated into heathenism, instead of being a Christian Republic; not only protecting religion and its professors, but upholding and encouraging them by every law of right, truth and justice.

It has a "right to introduce its code of morals into our free schools." Mind, we do not say sectarianism, but we do say morals. We are surprised that any public school teacher should dare to make such an assertion, and we pity the children placed under such training.

"Young Teacher," remember for one moment that when you strike at the morals of a nation you strike it to the heart.

The latter part of the sentence is too ridiculous to require an answer, unless the "Young Teacher" is a Turk, or belongs to the almond-eyed children of the Flowery Kingdom. If so, sir, go back to Cathay and teach the "Heathen Chinee," but do not dare to step upon the Christian soil of America with the assertion that our teachers have no right to instill into the young minds entrusted to their care the only true basis upon which their future lives can be built.

AN AMERICAN.

Immense Cheek.

MR. EDITOR: When it is remembered that Mr. Tiffany is editor and proprietor, or at least the political adviser and financial backbone, of the Express; when you consider that the paper was started with money wrong from the Republican party; and when, sir, you consider that the same paper, after encouraging and working up the People's Ticket last Fall, deliberately sold out to the ring it had shown up, don't you think the following, from Mr. Tiffany's paper, the immensest piece of cheek of the day?

As against this man, whose record is so foul, look at that of Mr. Tiffany, senior, a gentleman of irreproachable morals, of warm and manly instincts, of great dignity of character and of unquestioned integrity, integrity and intelligence. During his long residence here he has gained the friendship and esteem of all who have known or come in contact with him. He has not nor never had any connection with either the city or the State in any way. No one can place a finger on an act of his that would not bear the closest scrutiny and the most rigid criticism. He is the spontaneous choice of his neighbors, who appreciate his worth and know that the best interests of this city will be safe in his honest and sagacious keeping. There is no man who can say he is the tool of any clique or the instrument of any ring. Everybody knows that when elected he will administer the affairs of this city on the highest principles of right and for the benefit of the whole people. As between him and Beaudry there can be no comparison, for Tiffany is the noblest of all creatures—an Honest Man.

Complimentary Soiree.

The complimentary entertainment tendered to Miss Olivas at Turn-Verein Hall for to-morrow evening promises some rare features in its programme. The volunteers for the occasion comprise nearly all the popular amateurs of our city. The entertainment will be pleasantly diversified by vocal and instrumental music—duets, quartettes and solos with piano and guitar accompaniments, an original poem written for the occasion, and tableaux in costume illustrative of the poem. It will be a grand affair and all should attend. Doors open at 7 P. M. Overture commences at 8 o'clock.

SUNDAY READING.

TRUST.

A SONNET.

BY MARGARET J. PRESTON.

Consider, were it filial in a child
To speak in such wise: "Father, though I know
How strong your love is, having proved it so
Since my first breath was drawn; and though
You're pained by anxious care, that has been
Your lot, yet in my heart are doubts unreckoned,
Tomorrow, when I hunger, can I be
Sure that for bread you will not give a clot,
Letting me starve the while you hold in fe?
(Overlooking lesser needs) the acres broad
Won for me through your ceaseless toil?
In just such fashion, dare to doubt of God!
—Independent.

LIFE'S TAPESTRY.

Too long have I, musing, with tearful eye,
Poured over this tangled work of mine, and
About each stitch averted, and thread confused;
Now will I think on what, in years gone by,
I heard of them who weave rare tapestry.
At royal courts, and how they constant use
To work on the rough side, and still persevere
The pictured pattern set above them high;
So will I set my copy high above,
And gaze, and gaze, till my own spirit glows
In grateful print, till some line of love,<
Transferred upon my canvas, faintly
glows;
Nor look too much on warp and woof provided
He whom I work for sees the fairest side.
—Dora Greenwell's Poem of Hope

Happy Every Day.

Sidney Smith cut the following from a newspaper, and preserved it for himself: "When you rise in the morning, form the resolution to make the day a happy one to a fellow-creature. It is easily done—a left-off garment to the man that needs it; a kind word to the sorrowful; an encouraging expression to the striving—trifles in themselves as light as air, will do at least for the twenty-four hours. And if you are young, depend upon it, it will tell when you are old; and if you are old, rest assured it will send your gray hairs and happily down the stream of life to eternity. By the most simple arithmetical sum, look at the result: If you send one person only happily through the day, that is 365 in the course of a year; and suppose you live forty years only after you commence that course of medicine, you have made 14,600 beings happy at all events for a time."

A Bad Paymaster.

"What does Satan pay you for swearing?" asked the deacon of one whom he had heard using profane language.

"He don't pay me anything," was the reply.

"Well, you work cheap. To lay aside the character of a man, and to inflict so much pain on your friends, and civil people; to suffer, and lastly to run the risk of losing your own precious soul (and gradually rising in emphasis) and all for nothing! You certainly do work cheap—very cheap, indeed."

In the work just published called "Villagers of the Bible," by Rev. Paxton Hood, he has the following:

"That is a pretty story told by Jeremy Taylor in his 'Liberty of Prophecy,' and I do not remember to have seen it elsewhere, although I am told it is to be found in one of the Talmuds; how that Abraham was sitting at his tent door, ready according to his wont to entertain strangers, when there came along an old man worn by age and labor, and leaning on a staff. And Abraham received him in the tent at Mamre kindly, and washed his feet and provided supper for him. But Abraham noticed that he did not pray nor ask for a blessing; and when he inquired he found that the old man worshipped fire only; and then the patriarch thrust him forth from his tent into the dark night."

But when the old man was gone, God spoke to Abraham, and asked where the stranger was.

And Abraham replied, "I thrust him away because he did not pray and bless." And then God replied to him, "Have I borne with him a hundred years, and couldst not thou endure him one night?" From whatever source the legend is derived it teaches a beautiful lesson.

Religion is life rather than science, and there is a danger peculiar to the intellectual man of turning into speculation what was given to live by. The intellect, busy with ideas about God, may not only fail to bring a man nearer to the divine life, but may actually tend to withdraw from it. For the intellect takes in but the image of the truth, and leaves the vital impressions, the full power of it, unappropriated. And having it, it is a delusion, truths which, if felt by the unlearned at all, go straight to the heart and are taken in by the whole man, are apt in the philosopher and the theologian to stop at the vestibule of the understanding and never to get farther. The trained intellect is apt to eat out of the child's heart, and yet the "except ye become as little children," stands unrepealed.

It is our privilege and duty to advance; and if we halt in our onward course, thinking that progress may now come to an end—that we may now take our ease, having accomplished all that is required of us, is a delusion. This fleeting breath on earth is given for our training, for our constant advancement, and the man who stops at any period of life, thinking that he needs nothing more, is not prepared for heaven.—Isaac H. Satter.
